

Here and There

Editorial By Alex. H. Washburn

TODAY, after a month and a half of fruitless argument, the World Economic Conference broke up at London. They call it a "recess"—actually it is an adjournment. Sixty-six nations met there. There were too many individual problems. Too many conflicting aims—and too many languages.

Ask Big Loan for Unfinished State Plant at Benton

$300,000 to Complete Hospital Work Now Under Way

AND 1-1-3 MILLION

Is First Request of Public Works Administrator in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—

The state hospital at Benton presented its application for a loan Thursday to the State Advisory Board of the U. S. Public Works Administration as the members awaited final instructions from Washington before meeting to organize.

The request of the State Construction Commission for a loan was to be expected, said Vincent M. Miles, regional advisor for the Public Works Administration.

A loan of $300,000 for work now under way, and an additional of $1,200,000 for completion of the program, are sought in the state's petition.

As regional advisor, Mr. Miles has charge of public works recommendations in several states.

Each state under him has its own advisory board which must pass on all matters to be submitted to him for conveyance to Washington. The Arkansas advisory board comprises: E. C. Horner, Helena; Haley Bennett, Little Rock; and J. S. Parks, Fort Smith.

They were appointed Wednesday.

7 State Officials Under Indictment

Treasurer Leonard, Kleiber and Elmer Smith Make Bond

LITTLE ROCK—(P)—The Pulaski county grand jury late Wednesday returned indictments against State Treasurer Roy V. Leonard and two former officials of the state highway department, bringing to seven the number of present and former officials indicted in an investigation of state affairs.

Indicted with Treasury Leonard were Victor A. Kleiber, former accountant of the highway department, and Elmer W. Smith, former cashier of the highway department.

Leonard, Kleiber and Smith, each indicted on charges of using public funds, surrendered at the office of Sheriff L. B. Brumby and made bonds of $2,500 each shortly after they were informed of the accusations against them.

The others indicted previously, all of whom were released under bonds ranging from $1000 to $5000, are Dwight H. Blackwood, former chairman of the state highway commission, and Charles S. Christian, former chief highway engineer, both named in connection with a state bridge construction project; Lieutenant Colonel Edward Woodford, United States property disbursing officer for the Arkansas national guard; and Lieutenant Colonel Charles S. Garrett, former assistant state adjutant general, charged with mishandling military department funds.

The grand jury adjourned late Wednesday until August 15, when investigations of state and county departments will be resumed.

Prosecuting Attorney Carl E. Bailey said he believed the indictments against Leonard, Kleiber and Smith, to be the first of their kind ever returned in Pulaski county, and probably the first in the state.

A state law, almost forgotten, Bailey said, prohibits use of public funds by an official for his or her's benefit. Conviction on this charge carries a penalty of from five to 21 years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

Mrs. Callie Keen Is Seriously Ill

Well Known Hope Woman in Hospital Since July 17

Much anxiety was felt Thursday afternoon over the condition of Mrs. Callie Keen, well known Hope woman, who is seriously ill in Julia Chester hospital.

A member of the hospital staff said little change had taken place within the last 24 hours. Mrs. Keen has been seriously ill in the hospital since July 17.

If you think President Roosevelt has tackled an enormous task under his National Recovery Act, still you understand that by comparison with the London conference Mr. Roosevelt is almost certain to succeed.

He is dealing with one people, one nation, one language.

The London envoys dealt with 66. The United States from an economic standpoint is the equivalent of several different countries but under the same government. The interests of the Southern cotton farmer and the Western wheat farmer are one thing. The interests of the California citrus grower are entirely different. Detroit's automobile industry is something else again—and up in New England there are small farmers and manufacturers who might as well be in a foreign country when it comes to understanding the needs of the rest of the nation.

And over all this vast, strange economic map stands the president and the federal government.

What holds these warring interests together in one nation?

Language, patriotism, faith. Mr. Roosevelt has everything that the London diplomats in the very nature of things could not have.

And where the men at London failed, the man in Washington will succeed.

We live on a great transcontinental highway.

This fact is impressed on a newspaper office almost every day.

A tourist loses a suitcase off the running-board of his car. He comes by the office to insert a classified advertisement—and pretty soon somebody turns up with the tourist's extra pair of pants.

Tuesday night a big C. & S. Transport truck out of St. Louis lost one of its dual-wheel-tires between Prescott and Hope. The truck boys placed a classified ad in Wednesday's Star, offering a reward. Thursday morning a negro found the wheel and tire near the Hope viaduct on No. 67, brought it to a local service station, and claimed the reward.

Nearly every day, something like this happens.

It makes one feel like the lost-and-found department of a street railway system—where all the umbrellas were collected on the first day it stopped raining.

They tell me the Hope police department saw an alderman park a 70 pound watermelon in front of his office window the other day.

The police thought it would be a good joke to "hook" the melon and watch the alderman search for it.

The alderman came out. The melon was gone.

A "wise guy"—this alderman. He had a feeling that somebody was expecting him to throw a fit of rage. But he calmly climbed in his car and drove home without the melon.

Five minutes later a chagrined carload of policemen delivered the missing melon at the alderman's home.

Moral: If you come out of your office and find your watermelon gone, don't do like the alderman did. But get mad at once—because whoever stole your melon it won't be the police!

Rained Out Twice, It Is Scheduled Again for 3:45 P. M.

A pet parade which has been rained out twice within the last week will be held next Monday afternoon at Fair Park, Mrs. Charles Wilkin, in charge of the city playground, announced Thursday.

The parade will start at 3:45 o'clock.

London Trade Conference Adjourns

MacDonald Offers Hope That It May Meet Again Soon

"More Time Needed for Results," Declares British Premier

ROOSEVELT'S NOTE

Something Gained, He Says, by Free Discussion of Crisis

LONDON, Eng.—(P)—After receiving a dramatic message of encouragement from President Roosevelt, the world economic conference adjourned here late Thursday, to meet again after a recess and make a new attempt to restore world prosperity.

"We adjourn not because we are defeated, not because we are discouraged, but because longer time is needed to attain results," said Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain in declaring the historic meeting to be adjourned.

Views Are Conflicting The note of optimism from the American president contrasted sharply with some closing addresses. "Results are not always measured in terms of formal agreements," said Mr. Roosevelt in his communication to Chairman MacDonald. "They can come equally from the free presentation of each nation's difficulties and each nation's methods to meet its individual needs."

The conference, Mr. Roosevelt said, has brought a better understanding of other nations' problems than ever before.

Lasted 1½ Month

The world economic conference ran for a month and a half, opening July 12, with representatives of 66 nations attending.

Adjournment, or "recess" as it is called, became necessary when the United States and Great Britain refused to meet the demand by France and her gold-standard allies that world exchange be stabilized.

While the British pound and American dollar are close to par with regard to each, as a result of their departure from the gold standard, both currencies are cheapened in terms of the French franc.

Sale Cotton Belt Is Declared Valid

Federal Court Approves Purchase by Southern Pacific

FRANKFORT, Ky.—(P)—A three-judge federal court Wednesday approved acquisition of control of the St. Louis-Southwestern railroad, known as the Cotton Belt, by the Southern Pacific railroad.

A decision was handed down by United States Circuit Judge Charles H. Moore and District Judges A. M. J. Cochran and Charles I. Dawson, dismissing the suit of the Missouri Pacific and the Texas and Pacific railroads against the United States and the Southern Pacific to prevent the Southern Pacific from acquiring the Cotton Belt.

St. Louis Terminal Handles More Cars Last Week Than Year Ago

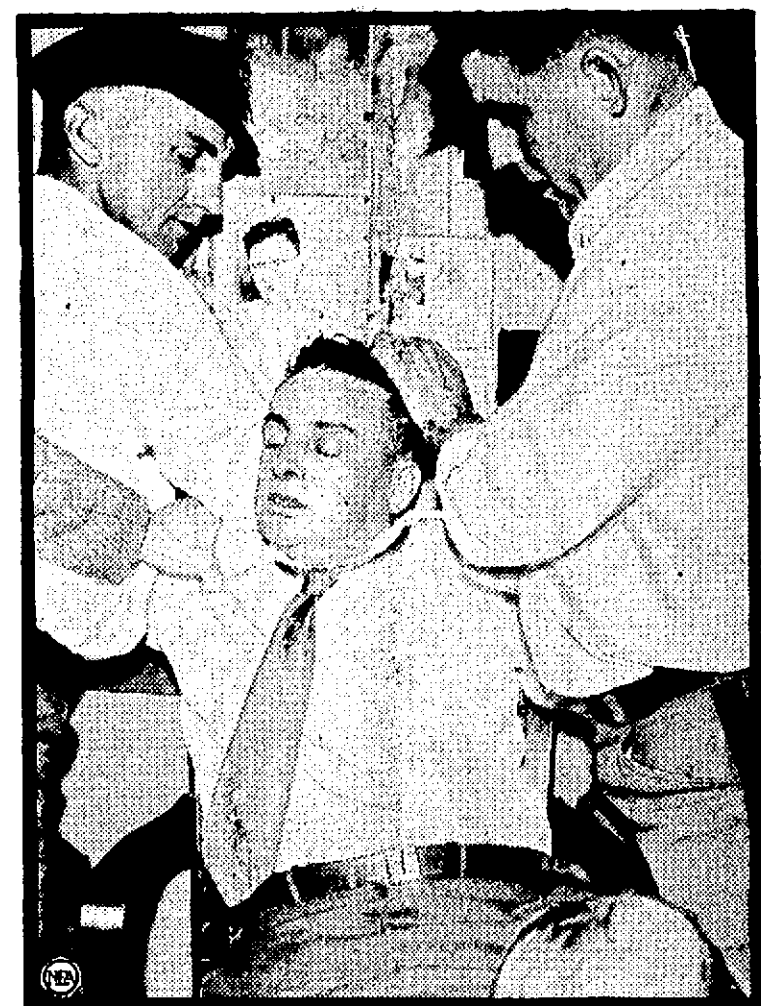

NEW YORK.—(P)—Freight car loadings for last week reported Wednesday continued to run ahead of last year. The St. Louis terminal interchanged 33,830 cars, compared with 28,758 in the like week in 1932.

Missouri Pacific had total loadings of 22,368 against 19,003; Gulf Coast Lines, 3,102 against 2,505; Missouri-Kansas-Texas, 6,830 against 6,701; St. Louis-San Francisco, 11,897 against 11,288.

Touhy, captured with three henchmen in Elkhorn, Wis., by a rookie policeman off duty, has been returned to Chicago to face charges of several kidnappings, including that of "Jake the Barber" Factor. Never photographed before, Touhy was reluctant to face the camera, but Elkhorn police persuaded him to pose, as this portrait study well shows.

Cotton Passes 11 Cents on Thursday

Up 26 Points to Close at 11.02—Best Since the Break

With a gain of 26 points in trading Thursday, cotton climbed over the 11-cent mark, New York October futures closing at 11.02-3.

Thursday's market saw cotton at the highest peak since last week's wild break which sent the staple tumbling to as low as 9.61.

The 26-point gain Thursday represents advances of $1.30 per bale. The previous close was 10.76.

24 Trucks Bought by Highway Office

Hope Auto Co. Delivers Big Order for Ford in District No. 3

One of the largest motor transactions in years was completed here this week when Hope Auto company delivered 24 new Ford dump trucks to Division Three of the State Highway maintenance department, with headquarters at Hope.

Each of these trucks are of one-and-one-half ton capacity, according to Tom McLarty, local Ford dealer.

The trucks were unloaded and assembled by the staff of the Hope Auto company. The total transaction amounted to more than $20,000 it was said. A fleet-owner's price had been made on competitive bidding to the State Highway Department by Ford Motor company, delivery to be made through the Hope dealer.

J. R. Rhyne, state supervisor of the State Highway Department, had charge of the purchasing.

WAR ON "RACKETS"

Sapiro Once Noted Leader of Co-Operative Marketing

CHICAGO.—(P)—A blanket indictment charging Al Capone, Dr. Benjamin Squires, Aaron Sapiro and 21 other defendants on conspiracy charges including bombings, window smashing and restraint of trade, were returned by the Cook county grand jury Thursday.

Their indictment was regarded as the state's first frontal attack on racketeering and the violence which it brought into the legitimate industries of Chicago.

Sapiro was a leader in the early co-operative marketing movement in the United States. A year ago he came here as counsel for the Laundry Owners association, which he quit last June.

Capone is now serving a term in Atlanta federal penitentiary for violation of the income tax laws.

Squires was formerly an arbiter in the cleaning and dyeing industry here.

Australian Cracks Up at Irish Port

Captain Ulm's Plane Mires Down in Sandy Airport

DUBLIN, Ireland.—(P)—The wheels of the plane in which the Australian aviator Captain Charles T. P. Ulm and three companions planned to fly to North America sank in the sands at Portmarnock airfield near here Thursday, resulting in injuries to five persons.

None was injured seriously, but the plane was damaged and it is estimated several days will be required for repairs.

The accident occurred as Ulm was landing on a flight from London, the first lap of his journey.

London to Dublin

LONDON, Eng.—(P)—Charles T. P. Ulm, Australian aviator, took off from Heston airfield early Thursday for Portmarnock Beach, near Dublin, first leg of a flight that he hopes will carry him and three companions across the Atlantic to New York.

Ulm planned to refuel at Portmarnock and, if weather and beach conditions are favorable, to start shortly on the long trip.

He is accompanied by P. G. Taylor, G. L. Allen and a wireless operator, J. A. Edwards. They had planned to start the overseas journey yesterday but were delayed by a defect in the gasoline tank of the plane.

From New York the Australian wants to fly to San Francisco and thence to the Antipodes.

Adolphe's Wife Demands $600,000

Files Suit for Divorce and All of Menjou's Property

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—(P)—Adolphe Menjou, screen actor, Wednesday was sued for divorce by Kathryn Carver, former actress and model, who accused him of associating with another woman, dissipating community property and threatening her life.

The complaint charged that Menjou, the suave, dapper, man-about-town type in films, told his wife falsehoods, nagged her, carried on tirades against their friends, became intoxicated and upset her so she was forced to obtain hospital treatment for shock. Several separations and reconciliations followed their marriage in Paris in May, 1928.

Miss Carver said the community property was worth $600,000 and asked the court to award it all to her. She said her husband earned an average of $100,000 annually in 1930-31-32, and estimated that for 1933 he would earn $180,000.

Depositors Are to Decide Liquidation

Wasson Issues Statement as to Old Hempstead County Banks

State Bank Commissioner Marion Wasson of Little Rock, was in Hope Thursday conferring with W. S. Atkins, in charge of the liquidation of three defunct Hempstead county banks.

Mr. Wasson stated that a mass meeting may be called in the near future to determine what depositors wished to do concerning their interests in the closed Bank of Ozon, the Washington State Bank, and the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. of Hope.

"I take this stand: The banks belong to the depositors and what they want to do with their remaining assets and liabilities will be satisfactory to me," Mr. Wasson told the Star.

"I still have 51 banks in the state I'm working on, trying to re-open them on a non-restricted basis," the bank commissioner said.

Mr. Wasson returned to Little Rock Thursday afternoon. He was preceded on his visit to Hope by H. A. Daugherty, state bank examiner, who came through here Tuesday on a tour of properties in this region.

Will Dispose of Beer by August 15

No Local Option, But Power Is Given to City Councils

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—Legal beer in Arkansas by August 15 was the goal set by a joint legislative committee Wednesday night as it completed the draft of a measure to permit sale of light wines and beer, and received from Governor Futrell assurance he would leave the division of the revenues to the legislature after it convenes in special session.

The chief executive, however, will require an advance agreement upon the beer legislation bill, and upon a measure appropriating $10,000 for legislative expenses with "gentlemen's agreement" that any debates over the beer or revenue division bills beyond

The Tax Bill

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—A bill designed to relieve taxpayers and at the same time restore to the tax books millions of dollars of delinquent property was completed Wednesday by Senator Sam Levine's joint legislative committee and circulation of copies among members of the assembly was started.

The bill makes an outright gift to the taxpayer of all the taxes accrued against latencies certified to the state for more than a three year period, and makes a gift of 50 percent of the taxes accrued up to and including three years.

The taxpayers affected would be those delinquent in tax payments prior to 1932.

Upon application of a delinquent taxpayer, the state land commissioner would accept up to December 31, 1933, an installment payment for half the amount necessary to redeem, and the remainder would be paid on or before June 30, 1934. Upon full payment, the taxpayer would receive a quit claim deed to his property.

a seven day limit will be at the expense of the members and not of the taxpayers.

Should a working majority of both houses agree in advance upon passage of the beer and appropriation bills with the provision in the latter as to a seven day session, Governor Futrell promised to issue the call. It will go out, he indicated, as soon as the agreements of majorities reach him.

Senator Charles I. Evans' joint beer committee after two days of steady work finally adopted the draft of the beer measure which would levy a tax of $1 per barrel or 3 1/2 cents per gallon, and state retail license privileges ranging from $10 to $20, depending upon the volume of sales.

Walter McGee Is Convicted by Jury, Sentenced to Die

Returned McElroy Girl Unharmed, But Got $30,000 Ransom

A "SCOTLAND YARD"

National Police System May Be Created for United States

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(P)—Walter McGee was sentenced to death Thursday by a criminal court jury which convicted him of kidnapping Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of the city manager of Kansas City.

The case was the first in which the extreme penalty was assessed in the nation's crusade against kidnapers, and one of the few in history to bring a death sentence where the victim of the kidnapping was unharmed.

The jury of 12 men interrupted the trial of McGee's brother George, facing the same charge, to bring in its verdict.

The former Oregon convict retained his composure as he heard the jury announce that he was condemned to die on the gallows.

No member of the McElroy family was in the courtroom.

The girl was kidnapped from the bathroom of her home May 27, and returned to her father 30 hours later after payment of $30,000 ransom, half of which was found on three men, the McGee brothers and Clarence Click, when they were arrested early in June.

"Scotland Yard" for U. S. A.

By the Associated Press

The federal governments crusade against kidnapping kept pace Wednesday with a rising tide of public indignation over the nation.

In the national capital, Attorney General Cummings let it be known after a conference with President Roosevelt that the government would spare no expense to stamp out kidnapping.

"The fight has to be won; we are going ahead to the limit," he avowed.

It was revealed that organization of some kind of national police force is under consideration—a modified form of Scotland Yard.

"We are going through with this," the attorney general declared, "and we will spend the money as it is needed."

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt assured police representatives of various nations of his support for organization of an international bureau to combat crime. The men who called at the White House represented the International Criminal Police Division, the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the International Police Conference who will convene at Chicago tomorrow.

No Lessening of Crime

Although authorities at half a dozen points won victories over kidnapers and organized gangs, there appeared no lessening in kidnapping and crime.

Police of Los Angeles gave permission for a bodyguard to protect the wife and baby of Bing Crosby, crooner, from kidnapers. Two victims—John J. O'Connell Jr., of Albany, N. Y., and Charles F. Urschel of Oklahoma City—remained in the hands of kidnapers.

Progress in prosecution of suspected kidnapers included issuance of federal warrants at St. Louis for two more alleged members of the gang that attempted in vain to obtain $30,000 ransom for August Luter, banker of Alton, Ill. Two others were held.

At Kansas City, the case of Walter H. McGee, former Oregon convict, accused of kidnapping Miss Mary McElroy, 25, daughter of the city manager, was given to the jury with the state demanding the death penalty.

To More Prisoners

Officials reiterated that they had powerful evidence against Roger Touhy and three members of his Chicago gang. Preparations continued for removing the four prisoners from Milwaukee to St. Paul, Minn., for prosecution in the $100,000 kidnapping of William Hamm Jr., wealthy brewer.

Authorities of several states mapped plans for concerted drives against kidnapping gangs, and in their California convention the governors of states pledged themselves to co-operation with the federal government. Theodore C. Hufferreffer, 53, wealthy Boston brewer, was in seclusion while law enforcement agencies sought extortionists who threatened him with abduction unless he paid $150,000 to the "Beer Baron's Protective Association."

Difficulties Seen

While Cummings did not go into detail of the national police plan, it was said one thing in the way of organizing to operate throughout the country is that it would conflict with state laws. It has been suggested that

Falling Dollar Hits Diplomats
Income Down 50 Per Cent

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEW YORK Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Depreciation of the dollar doesn't mean much to most of us, but our diplomats and consuls are taking it on the nose.

Several resignations already have been received—though the State Department won't admit it—from members of the foreign service who can't stand the gaff.

The general effect on the present exchange situation is to make the service more than ever a rich boys' playground and freeze out those career men who haven't an outside income.

The consular service is hardest hit.
Some of them have experienced a 50 per cent reduction of income as compared with last year. Those who live outside embassies and legations receive up to $720 a year for rent—minus a 15 per cent cut in addition to a similar cut on their salaries and the effect of at least a 30 per cent decline in the value of the dollar abroad.

Foreign service men receive from $2500 to $9000 a year, ministers $10,000 and ambassadors $17,500—all minus the 15 per cent. The average income decline seems to be about 50 per cent.
It's especially tough on our representatives who have leases on houses.

Nothing can be done about it, short of an act of congress—six months hence. Meanwhile, every chief of mission is worrying Washington about the situation—and many subordinates who aren't resigning are digging deep into their pockets.

Unions May Seek Funds

Conservative leaders of the American Federation of Labor are under pressure from those who urge them to take full advantage of the collective bargaining provisions of the National Recovery Act by imposing a per capita tax on their 2,500,000 members in order to finance a huge union organization campaign.

They have expressed doubts as to their ability to collect such a tax and to operate such a big program, but there's a fair chance that they may come to it. The obvious intent of many large employers—exemplified by those of the steel industry—to preserve open shops and company unions is a spurting force.

Computing Process Taxes

The way these process taxes on farm products are worked out under the Agricultural Adjustment Act may be gathered from a rough description of the figures used in computing the process tax of 4.2 cents a pound on cotton.

The object is to restore pre-war parity between prices of what the farmer sells and what he buys. Cotton was selling at 12.4 cents a pound in the prescribed five-year pre-war period and the index for June on prices of things the farmer buys was 103 per cent as compared with that period.

So, 103 per cent of 12.4 was about 12.7 cents and the difference between that and the average cotton price of 8.5 cents prevailing in June was 4.2
cents—the amount of the process tax.

John Erblich, photographer for the Geographical Survey, has retired at the age of 70 with the unofficial title of Uncle Sam's "healthiest employee."
He worked 44 years without taking a single day off for illness.

Former Governor Theodore Bilbo of Mississippi, appointed to collect newspaper and magazine clippings on the agricultural adjustment act, has complained about his small cub-hole office and may be given a larger office with a rug.

Bilbo's job became extra-heavy after newspapers published widely some of the remarkable interviews he gave when correspondents first discovered him.

ELINOR STAFFORD falls in love with HARRY COLVIN. She is 20 and he is 25. LIDA STAFFORD, Elinor's jealous, scheming mother, breaks up the romance by convincing Harry that Elinor is a heartless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELLA SEXTON, dies she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then BARRETT VANCE CARTER shoots BENTWELL STAFFORD, Elinor's father. Barrett tells Elinor that if she will marry him and live as a guest in his home for a year he will give her the entire SEXTON fortune to divide among her relatives, the rightful inheritors. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, still believing the idea Lida has told him, finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. The doctor orders a change of climate for her father and Elinor goes to Alaska with him.

Years before Barrett shielded his half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, when a youthful romance ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. He has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's story. Lida Stafford learns about the boy's existence and concludes he is Barrett's son. Barrett makes an unannounced trip to Alaska. Elinor's father dies and she is close to collapse. Barrett tries to comfort her. Her mother arrives and tells Barrett she knows about his ward. Lida demands that Barrett be silent about the story. Barrett gives it to her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XL

ON nights when Marcia could not sleep she was haunted by Arthur Palmer's eyes and what he had said. He didn't know what he was talking about, she assured herself. He couldn't understand how she felt about Dick, her husband. If Dick, who be- lieved her to be so innocent, should learn the truth about her marriage to Lon Moore it would be a fatal blow. It would kill Dick! He would never, never forgive the fact that she had lied to him.

It was on one of the hottest afternoons in June that Marcia called at her brother's home. Hig- gins opened the door for her. He said, "Mr. and Mrs. Colvin are expecting you, Miss Marcia."

"Thank you, Higgins," she an- swered, stepping into the hall. It was cool after the blistering blaze of the street.

She gave the butler a box of flowers she had brought from her garden and slipped from her silk coat which he took. She heard music as she moved toward the drawing room. Elinor and Bar- rett were there. For a moment Marcia studied them from the doorway.

Barrett stood with his arms on the piano, staring down at the girl. Marcia had never seen him before with that look of adoring tenderness. Elinor's face was raised to his and she was smiling. They were obviously devoted to each other.

"Well!" said Marcia loudly, blithely.

The two at the piano started. Barrett turned and called out warmly, "Hello!" He was too happy, she saw, to hold resent- ment. Elinor rose.

"I'm so glad to see you, Mar- cia!" she exclaimed.

"Darling child!" Marcia mur- mured, kissing Elinor. "My heavens, but you look lovely! Lovely!"

"I happen to think so too," Barrett said slowly. With a quick glance at him, Elinor flushed. Marcia felt herself hardening as she stared at Barrett. She had thought him to be devoted to her but she realized now he had given her only the surface of his love, crumbs from his table. It was not a pleasant thought for one of Marcia's temperament.

SHE settled herself in a chair. "Tell me, was Cuba amusing?" she asked.

"Rather," said Barrett, again looking at Elinor. "I've always been attracted by the place."

"Did you like it too, dear?" Marcia went on, turning to Elinor. "Oh, I adored it!" the girl an- swered.

"You two talk just the way Dick and I did about Dick's place in Canada where we spent our honeymoon. But you aren't honeymooners and haven't that excuse," Marcia murmured. To herself she thought, "What in the world can make Elinor flush so?"

"We were really delighted with the trip," Barrett stated hur- riedly. Higgins came in then with the flowers Marcia had brought. Elinor and Barrett both seemed eager to speak of the flowers, admiring them and prais- ing them rather extravagantly. Barrett, drawing his chair closer to Elinor's, reached for an end of the string sash she wore about her frock and ran it through his fingers.

He had to be near Elinor, Mar- cia saw. The thought aroused a flame of jealousy in her heart that was disconcerting.

Elinor asked about the baby and immediately Marcia was off. She related with elaborate detail just how the baby smiled, the way he looked while sleeping. She missed not a bead of the rosary every proud mother tells but she saw in her listeners no tendency to smile or hint at boredom as so many listeners do. Instead she felt she had their whole-hearted attention.

"You've been sweet about list- ening to all this," Marcia ad- mitted when at last she had fin- ished. "But it's so wonderful— having a baby for one's own! I can't help babbling. I hope some day you'll understand."

"I hope so," said Elinor and blushed.

A GAIN Barrett was looking at Elinor with that humble, adoring look. He laid his hand upon Elinor's. He had to make a trip down town and Marcia volun- teered to give him a lift. Before her, and much to her amusement, he said his goodby to Elinor, kissing her and adding, "Don't forget me!" He tried to make it seem a joke but quite obviously it was more than that.

"It looks as if life were happy for you, Barry," Marcia com- mented after they were on their way.

"Happy doesn't half express it," he responded.

"I'm so glad," she commented. She assured herself that she really was glad. And yet Bar- rett's infatuation menaced her. When she had been a child Bar- rett had always been willing to do anything to stop her tears. Now that was changed! A fool could see that Elinor ruled him, or could rule him if she wanted to.

When Barrett returned home at a bit after six he found Lida Staf- ford sitting with Elinor. As Lida greeted him she gave him a sly glance and a smile which he knew Elinor noted.

A little time passed and then Lida rose. "Run in to see me to- morrow morning, will you, Barry?" she asked sweetly. "I

SUCCESS
It's doing your job the best you can.
And being just to your fellow man.
It's making money, but holding friends.
And staying true to your aims and ends.
It's figuring how and learning why.
And looking forward and thinking high.
And dreaming a little and doing much.
It's keeping always in closest touch with what is finest in word and deed.
It's being thorough, yet making speed.
It's doing blithely the field of chance.
While making labor a brave romance.
It's going onward despite defeat.
And fighting staunchly, but keeping sweet.
It's being clean and it's playing fair.
It's laughing lightly at Dame Despair.
It's looking up at the stars above.
And drinking on with the will to win.
It's struggling with a cheerful grin.
It's sharing sorrow, and work, and mirth.
And making better this good old earth.
It's serving, striving through strain and stress.
It's doing your noblest—that's success!—Selected.

'College Humor' at Saenger to Friday

Bing Crosby and Richard Arlen in Big Musical Show

If Paramount would only give us the address of Mid-West University, whose gorgeous co-eds, tuneful melodies and irrepressible comes came to the screen of the Saenger Theatre Wednesday in "College Humor," there'd be a general exodus from all other universities.

It's a sparkling panorama of the college that lives eternally in the old grad's memory, and a cast of celebrities help to make it gay, melodious and delightfully good to look at.

Featured are Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, Jack Oakie, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California, Lona Andre, Mary Kornman and a collection of co-eds, titled the "Ox-Road Co-Eds" that make the Follies chorus look like a bunch of wilted daisies.

"College Humor" shows at the Saenger again Thursday night and Friday night and in addition Friday night at 8:45 there will be 30 minutes of colored vaudeville put on by the students of the Shover street school.

served to the following little friends, Bettie Jane Drilling of Morrilton, Mary Dell Waddle, Doris and Patsy Hatcher, Mary Ross and Matilda McPadden, Bobby Yard, Bobby Franklin and Tony Boyett.

Born to the late Arthur Claiborne and Mrs. Claiborne, a little daughter, on Wednesday, July 26th at the Julia Chester hospital. Mrs. Claiborne will be remembered as Miss Dale Russell.

Mrs. Ralph Koonce has returned from Chicago where she visited the Century of Progress Exposition. Mrs. Koonce was accompanied by her son-in-law, S. W. Frye of Fort Worth and J. D. Cotton of San Francisco.

Miss Carolyn Toland of Nashville and Miss Jeanne Roberts and William Roberts of this city left Monday for Springfield, Mo., for a visit. Miss Roberts will be a series of broadcasts before her return home.

states might voluntarily join with federal forces in the anti-crime movement and in this way form a national organization which could be directed from a central point.

Such a plan, it was said, would avoid any conflict with state laws and in every major crime enlist at the outset the combined forces of state, county, city and nation. Faced with such a line-up, Cummings believes criminals would find that swift punishment would result and that this would reduce lawlessness.

WILL DISPOSE OF

Hollenwerth of Bradley, and Senator Fred Armstrong of Fort Smith, was appointed to confer Wednesday night with Governor Futrell, and then notify the other commissioners of methods decided upon for circulating the beer and appropriation bills for advance legislative approval.

The salient features of the completed beer bill are:

A tax of $1 per barrel on beer. Sales license permits for manufacturers would be $500; for wholesalers and distributors $250 annually with a further permit or license of $100 for each additional sub-agency or distribution warehouse.

License permits for retailer would be $10 for those doing a volume of business under $1000 annually; $15 for those doing more than $1000 but less than $2000 of beer business annually; and $20 for those doing more than $2000 business annually.

There is no local option provision, but city councils would be empowered to regulate the sale of the beverage, the hours of closing of beer emporiums, the city license fees, and, by inference, to refuse to issue licenses for beer sales.

7 STATE OFFICIALS

highway officials were indicted as a result of State Comptroller Griffin Smith's investigation of the disposition of $33,000 sent to the treasury during the hours of closing of beer emporiums, the first two months of this year by sheriffs of various counties, in settlement of amounts due for collections of automobile license fees.

The comptroller's audit disclosed that the checks sent to Leonard were endorsed by him to the highway department. Then, the audit charged, the checks were cashed by Kleiber and Smith and the money obtained used to cash highway warrants.

The indictments charge specifically that checks for $2500 from Sheriff R. W. Turquette of Miller county, dated January 25, 1933, another check for $2284.01 from Sheriff Turquette, dated February 14, 1933; a check for $888.50 from Sheriff Carl H. Brooks of Randolph county, dated January 20, 1933, and a fourth check for $1633.19, from Sheriff John C. Riley of Ashley county, dated January 18, 1933, were endorsed by Leonard to the highway officials and the cash used to redeem highway warrants.

Total Precipitation From Saturday to Thursday 2.92 Inches

With the sixth consecutive day of rain over parts of the county Thursday, total precipitation since Saturday was brought to 2.92 inches.

The Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station recorded a rainfall of .13 inches from Wednesday noon until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

A drizzle of short duration fell in Hope Thursday morning, while Washington and Columbus reported showers.

Custards are ideal desserts to serve with vegetable dinners. The main ingredients of every custard are eggs and milk, two excellent sources of protein. So when this factor has been lacking in the first part of the meal the dessert may well supply it.

A perfect custard is not difficult to make and is sure to be liked by every member of the family. Children who do not like to drink milk can be given it in this form. However, custards are among those simple things which must be perfect to be enjoyed, and precautions must be taken in their making.

Avoid Long Baking

The number of eggs used in proportion to the amount of milk determines the consistency of the custard. The eggs act as the thickening agent for the milk. Less than one egg to one cup of milk will not thicken the milk enough to make a firm custard. Individual custards do very well with

Here's One Good Way To END AGONY OF NEURITIS

Newark Man Knows How and Loses 10 Pounds

"Gentlemen: I used Kruschen Salts to try and get rid of Neuritis from which I had suffered for one year in my left shoulder and arm. . . I took a little of the salts in the morning, sometimes in my coffee, other times in water. I would also occasionally take a dose in water at night before retiring. For 3 months I used the salts and while I lost 10 pounds in weight, the pain in my shoulder HAS ENTIRELY DISAPPEARED. During the time I was taking the salts I received no other medical treatment so I am fully convinced the Kruschen Salts did the trick." C. K. Murray, Newark, N. J.

Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—a jar lasts 4 weeks—get it at any druggist in the world—costs but a trifle.

cream, waffles, syrup, milk, coffee. Luncheon: Creamed tuna fish with Chinese noodles, mixed vegetable salad with French dressing, graham bread, hermits, lemonade. Dinner: Pineapple juice cocktail, fried spring chicken country style, milk gravy, mashed potatoes, stewed okra and tomatoes, frozen fruit salad, toasted crackers, milk, coffee.

this proportion, but large puddings that are to be unmolded will need more eggs. Soft custards, commonly called "boiled," and actually steamed, are made with one egg to one cup of milk. Large puddings should have at least six eggs to four cups of milk.

The amount of sugar used in custards is quite important, too. Too much sugar will liquify and settle to the bottom of cup or baking dish.

Always bake a custard in a large pan of hot water and never let the water boil. The custard is really "oven poached" rather than baked. A slow oven, or one which registers 350 degrees F. should be used. Do not bake it too long, either. An overcooked custard is "weepy" and far from appetizing.

It's a good idea to send the milk before combining it with the eggs and sugar. This insures a smooth texture and aids in preventing curdling.

Baked Custard

Six eggs, 3 cups milk, 2-3 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-8 teaspoon salt.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store.

Beat eggs slightly with salt and sugar. Either granulated or light brown sugar can be used. Scald milk over hot water and slowly beat into egg mixture. Stir until sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Add vanilla and pour into a lightly buttered baking dish. Sprinkle top with nutmeg. Put baking dish in a large pan and at the edge of the pan pour in hot water until it is half-way up the sides of the baking dish. Bake in a slow oven until firm to the touch. When a silver knife is thrust into the custard and comes out clean the custard is done. Remove at once from the pan of hot water. Cool and unmold to serve.

The food value of the custard in calories may help you in planning meals. Protein, 25; fat, 53; carbohydrate, 704. Total calories, 1,490.

I'm strong for sunshine — so I'm strong for "Toasting"

I've always found that really good reasons are the simplest reasons. For instance, I know that sunshine mellows and heat purifies. "Toasting" is therefore very easy for me to understand. And very easy for me to appreciate—because—my sense of the fastidious is so very exacting. You see, I'm always aware of the fact that my cigarette comes in such intimate contact with my lips. Quite naturally, it's the purity of "Toasting" that I single out for special praise. It's just my own personal feminine reason for saying "Luckies Please!"
